Free Online Genealogy Research Toolkits Completed

Everyone has their “Go To” websites for genealogy research. If you follow The Ancestor Hunt, you know that we specialize in curating and presenting links to Free Online Genealogy Records, Collections, and Indexes by genealogical category. You can always get to these links by selecting the Resources tab and then the By Locations page, selecting a state, and then a category. But, not all genealogy-related material fits into a category that can be curated easily, such as scrapbooks, diaries, letters, old manuscripts, local histories, etc. Also, it is wise to search for information from several different angles. Hence this free online genealogy collection toolkit is customized for each State., providing you wit a State-Level “Go To” list of links.

Each state has its own Toolkit. Each Toolkit has about 60 or so links to Free Online Genealogy Related Collections and Archives.

On the next page is an example of one that has been completed.

Coroner Record Links Updated

Coroner records are available online and offline from all over the U.S. and are what I consider a hidden gem of information that can assist you in advancing your family history and genealogy research.

The way I like to think of it is: “We spend a lot of our research time trying to find the story of our ancestors’ lives. It is also important to discover the story of our ancestors’ deaths”.

Getting the County Coroner involved was not just for splashy murders that end up on the front page of the newspaper. Usually, they get involved in any suspicious death, or even deaths from natural causes, where someone discovers the deceased after not hearing from them for a few days. What got me interested in researching Coroner Records was discovering the startling Inquest Records for my Great Aunt, who died in 1911. Since that shocking discovery, searching Coroner Records has been part of my research repertoire.

Most coroner records are still in paper form or have been microfilmed. There is some online though, and I am capturing those links and they are on the Coroner Records Page. Some of the paid subscription sites such as Ancestry and FindMyPast have coroner record collections also, but there aren’t that many.

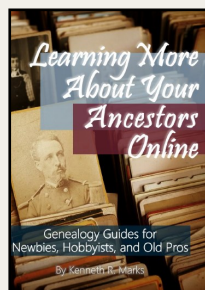

Having just completed the update of Free Online Coroner Records, I am always surprised each year at how popular the Coroner Records Page is. I wish that more collections were digitized.

Explore billions of newspaper articles from all over the world.

The easiest way to access a particular state's or province's list of collections and categories is via the BY LOCATION page.

This page has a dropdown for each state or province, with a link to the online collections links for every category available.

New Video Channel

I have changed my Video platform from YouTube. It just wasn't providing what I needed from a modern Video platform. It also was getting too "junked-up" with a lot of superfluous "stuff". Enter Humix.

I have added over two dozen new videos. Check them all out at

The Ancestor Hunt Video Channel

Recently I became aware of a new website – "Ancestor Photos". Essentially, it provides scanned copies of Victorian-era photographs. The database numbers in the thousands and includes (from the website):

"We provide a unique opportunity to find images of your ancestors from the Victorian era and to purchase scanned copies. We only stock photographs from English-speaking countries, mostly from the UK, but some from the United States, Canada, and Australia plus a few examples from British India, South Africa, and of British people visiting the continent of Europe. We do not have any German, French or other nationalities."

8,300 "New" Named Victorian era photos have been added to their database.

Why Aren't You Researching City Directories?

Frankly, I am amazed at how many genealogy researchers neglect to research City Directories. I can tell this by the traffic numbers at The Ancestor Hunt website and what categories of pages and articles that are visited. Sure, Newspapers, Obituaries, and Yearbooks are at the top of the list, but City Directories are far down the list. For me, I like to know where my ancestors resided throughout their life, and more importantly, who they lived with. Furthermore their spouse and occupation are often listed as well. Who wouldn't want to know that information?

In any case, here are 33 types of information that one can access from City Directories. Check out the more than 20,000 Free Online City Directories from the U.S. at the Directories page.

| | |
|--|--|
| Full names, including middle names | Government Offices |
| Spouse name | Government Officials |
| Occupation | Churches |
| Employer | Cemeteries |
| Widows and adult children at home | Schools |
| Phone numbers | Colleges and Universities |
| Whether a woman is a widow (including name of husband) | Funeral homes |
| List of marriages and deaths from previous year | Cemeteries |
| Abbreviations used in the directory | Post Offices |
| Maps | Courts |
| Street Locators and street name changes | Hospitals |
| City history | Firehouses |
| Bus routes | Police locations |
| Statistics | Military installations |
| Advertisements | Associations, clubs, lodges, and societies |
| Businesses | Newspapers |
| Index to advertisers | |

Now where can one find these gems? I have referenced The Ancestor Hunt's Directories page, which is where I would start, but here are some other sites that have made these records available online. There are some that require a subscription, while the others are free. The free ones have been included in The Ancestor Hunt list:

| | |
|--|--|
| • Internet Archive | • Google Books |
| • Don's List | • MyHeritage |
| • Fold3 | • FindMyPast |
| • Ancestry.com | • University of Leicester Historical Directories |
| • Distant Cousin (now defunct) | • Cyndi's List |
| • Hathitrust | • Online Historical Directories |

Help Your Ancestors Live Forever - Write Your Family History And Write Your Own History While You're At It

One of my goals in my personal genealogy is to make sure that my ancestors are remembered. Many had no descendants, so absolutely no one alive remembers them. That's sad to me, which is why I created a couple of family history websites. But recently I have been seeking even better ways to memorialize their lives. Their stories are important to be documented, which might explain why I am such a fan of newspaper research.

In any case, here are a few tools that I have discovered that provide a unique means to memorialize our ancestors.

And guess what? We need to produce our own autobiographies. We aren't getting any younger and memories do fade.

Whoowe

Produce an online history easily with text, video, and audio from online questions on your phone. You can contribute content in minute or several minute increments.

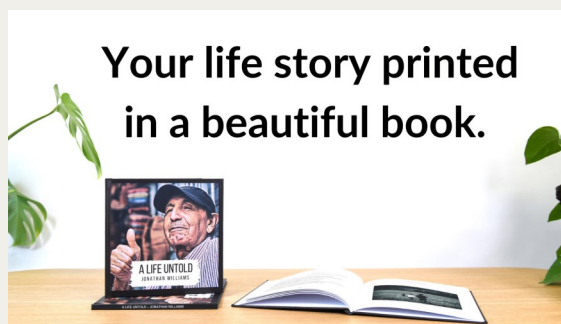

Whoowe is available from the AppStore and Google Play. Info at whoowe.com Try it out for free. Discount coupon for readers coming soon.

StorySpot

Produce an online memorial with text, video, timelines, photos, favorite songs, and audio, and produce an optional book. Great for family reunions also Available at www.storystop.com. Try it out for free. 25% discount available by using "ANCESTOR" as coupon code.

A Life Untold

Produce an online history easily with text, video, and audio from online questions. Proceed at your own pace, and add questions if you like. Very easy to use.

Available at A Life Untold. Try it out. 10% discount available by using "HUNT" as coupon code.

Record Your Autobiography With

AUDIOBIOGRAPHY

Audiobiography

They say the closest you can feel to someone without touching them, is hearing their voice. Produce an online autobiography or memorial with audio; add photos and coordinate with a book.

Available at Audiobiography. Try it out. 10% discount available by using "HUNT" as coupon code.

"The Ancestor Hunt" is an affiliate for several of these companies and may receive a small commission should you purchase through this newsletter or the website and/or if you use the coupon codes mentioned above.
